Pacific Coast Avifauna, No. 4

Birds of the Huachuca Mountains,
Arizona

By HARRY S. SWARTH

This 75-page pamphlet has just been issued by the Cooper Ornithological Club as the fourth of its series of special papers. We believe that it can be safely put down as the most valuable contribution to the ornithology of the middle-west of recent years. In it we find a soberly-written record of the author's three seasons of active field-work in an unique region from an avifaunal standpoint. The nesting habits of many rare species are described, and critical remarks on puzzling species are conscientiously advanced. The migration notes alone are of unusual bearing on the general subject, partly on account of the geographical position of the station. Every ORNITHOLOGIST should procure and carefully study this report.

OF THE

Michigan Ornithological Club

An Illustrated Quarterly devoted to the Ornithology of the Great Lake Region

Alexander W. Blain, Jr., Editor

J. Claire Wood and Walter B. Barrows, Associates

Beginning with 1904, the BULLETIN enters upon its fifth volume. Each issue is filled with notes fresh from the field and museum. A large corps of field ornithologists are among its contributors, which makes it indispensable to all live bird students. If you want the leading field magazine of the East, you will have to read the BULLETIN. Have you seen the March issue (36 pages)? It contains besides many interesting and valuable articles the complete notes on the "Discovery of the Breeding Area of Kitland's Warbler." Fine illustrations appear in each issue. You cannot get along without the BULLETIN.

Subscription, 50 Cents per Year

Sample Copy, 15 Cents

Vols. I, II and III are out of print and cannot be supplied at any price. A few complete sets of Vol. IV (1903) can still be supplied at 50 cents per volume
